Your ERP is Only as Good as Your URS

The implementation of a new Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) application is usually more painful than expected. Changes during the development process, resistance from users, disruption of normal workflow, and unplanned integration issues with existing systems cause delays, bugs and re-writes. These in turn cost money. Read more...

What is QBCon Enterprise?

QBCon Enterprise is a comprehensive Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) System. It is widely deployed in the Retail, Agricultural and Financial Environments.

Success Story

AFGRI expands functionality with branch server deployment

AFGRI, the diversified agricultural supplier with an income of R5.5 billion a year, is changing the way it manages its enterprise resource planning (ERP) in its flagship retail outlets. This is to gain greater business continuity in areas with poor or unstable connectivity. Read more...
